Eastern New Mexico State Fair Culture Statement:

The Eastern New Mexico State Fair board and staff are committed to cultivating a vibrant and enriching environment centered around youth development and sense of community. While we realize we cannot write rules and regulations for every instance, we strive to maintain what we feel is at the heart of every livestock show experience and expect you will do the same.

- Youth Development and Education: Our chief focus lies in fostering personal growth and development in young exhibitors. We believe in providing hands-on learning experiences that extend beyond the show ring, encompassing areas like responsibility, work ethic, problem solving, and communication to name a few. We aim to equip the next generation with the knowledge and skills necessary to become successful individuals, whether they pursue agricultural careers or not.
- Ethical Animal Care and Well-Being: We are committed to upholding the highest standards of animal welfare, and we expect our participants and their families to do the same. Exhibitors, families, and volunteers are expected to demonstrate humane treatment and responsible care of their animals, prioritizing their health and safety above all else. This commitment reflects our dedication to producing a safe, wholesome product for consumers to buy.
- Sportsmanship and Integrity: We champion a spirit of healthy competition, encouraging exhibitors to win gracefully and accept setbacks with dignity. We emphasize respect for judges, officials, fellow exhibitors, and animals alike. Honesty and integrity are the cornerstones of our show, and we adhere to strict ethical guidelines and rules to ensure a fair playing field.
- Community and Camaraderie: Livestock shows provide a platform for building lasting relationships and fostering a strong sense of community. We encourage exhibitors, families and volunteers to collaborate, support one another, and celebrate successes together. We also want our exhibitors, families and volunteers to have fun and enjoy their time at the fair. The shared experiences in the barn and the show ring create a unique bond among participants, strengthening the fabric of our agricultural community.
- Preservation of Agricultural Heritage: We recognize the enduring value of livestock shows as a link between our agricultural past and its future. We are committed to preserving the traditions and values that define the Eastern New Mexico State Fair while also embracing progress and innovations in animal agriculture, welfare practices, and sustainable production methods.

By upholding these values, we all aim to create a positive, educational, and memorable experience for all participants, while fostering the development of responsible individuals who will contribute positively to the future of agriculture and their communities.
